President's Message

Marisa K. Dowling, MD, MPP

Dear Colleagues,

Hello, I am Marisa Dowling, clinical and health policy faculty at George Washington University-Medical Faculty Associates (GW-MFA). I am honored to serve as DC ACEP's new Chapter President for the 2022-2023 term.

Before going further, I must thank our Immediate Past-President, Dr. Leah Steckler for her service during the last year, which came at a time of professional and personal transition as the pandemic reached a "new normal" and she welcomed her first child.

Under her leadership, the chapter hosted an expert townhall on EM workforce, a popular LLSA virtual conference, and successful DC area Program Director Panel for EM-bound medical students. We are grateful for Dr. Steckler's leadership and her ongoing work on behalf of our chapter.

Most recently, DC ACEP members met at ACEP's Leadership and Advocacy Conference (LAC) here in DC to advocate for our specialty. See MS4 Will Sweetser's excellent summary of the conference below.

Also during the conference, DC ACEP held its annual elections. I am delighted to introduce the following chapter officers:

POSITION	CHAPTER BOARD MEMBER
President	Marisa K. Dowling, MD, MPP
President-Elect	Open
Secretary/Treasurer	Stanislaw C. Haciski, MD
Immediate Past President	Leah E. Steckler, MD

Notably, the President-Elect position is currently open. We welcome all interested members to apply. Please feel free to contact me directly to talk about the role.

The chapter has a busy calendar ahead. Please make note of several “Save the Dates” and deadlines below:

- June 16 - Chapter leaders have a virtual visit with Dr. Gillian Schmitz, ACEP's current President & Sue Sedory, ACEP's Executive Director.
  - If there is a topic you would like for us to bring to national ACEP's attention, please submit the topic here.
- August 8 - The 15th Annual DC ACEP Chapter LLSA Review Conference will be held virtually the morning of Monday, August 8th. More details on this popular free benefit for DC Chapter members will be shared shortly.
- September 7 - Virtual Residency Director Panel hosted by DC ACEP and DC Medical Student Council. We thank Dr. Sullivan for her leadership on this event. See additional details later in this newsletter.
- September 29 & 30 - National ACEP Council Meeting at ACEP22 in San Francisco
  - July 2 - Draft resolutions for National ACEP Council Meeting at ACEP22 due. We value all chapter members' involvement in developing council resolutions. Submit any ideas you have for resolutions here.

Lastly, we plan to host an in-person, outdoor social event this summer. We hope it will be an opportunity for member socializing and networking that I know so many of us have missed. Stay tuned for details.

In this upcoming year as Chapter President, I plan to focus on workforce resiliency and safety, robust social and educational events locally, growing our chapter membership, and carrying your voice into national ACEP and DC government decision-making. DC ACEP offers many opportunities to grow in terms of education, networking, advocacy, and leadership. I am truly grateful for the opportunity to serve as your DC ACEP Chapter President. Please feel free to reach out at any time. I look forward to connecting at our many upcoming events!

Virtual Residency Director Panel
Natalie Sullivan, MD

In conjunction with the DC Medical Student Council (MSC), DC ACEP will host a virtual Residency Director Panel on Wednesday, September 7th at 5:30PM. Panelists include representatives from the University of Maryland, Johns Hopkins University, George Washington University, and Georgetown University.

This annual event provides medical students interested in Emergency Medicine residency the opportunity to learn more about the residency programs in the DC-Baltimore area. It provides a forum for Directors to connect with our students and allow them to ask questions. In past years, the panel has focused on application specifics, the interview cycle and program updates. While the content is mainly directed towards fourth years, all medical students are welcome.

Medical Student Corner
William Sweetser, MS4

As a rising fourth year medical student at George Washington University, I was excited to attend my first ACEP Leadership and Advocacy Conference this May. It was an incredible experience!

The three-day conference in downtown Washington DC provided invaluable education material as a medical student to learn about health policy through the Young Physicians section primer courses, hear from leaders in important topics like burnout and ED workplace violence, and then advocate for those topics with D.C.'s Congresswoman Eleanor Holmes Norton and her staff.

Prior to medical school, I was hit working as an ED technician and saw firsthand the various verbal and physical threats staff encountered daily. At this conference, I took the opportunity to share this story with the Congresswoman to provide a personal context for our policy goals and to foster her support and promote them at the national platform. As a medical student developing my interest in health policy, I appreciated the opportunity to see the continuum of how policy is conceptualized, discussed amongst emergency medicine physicians, and then promoted at state and national levels.

Furthermore, I enjoyed networking with phenomenal physicians and students from across the country who were so welcoming to me and provided great insight on how to communicate our priority issues. I encourage DC emergency medicine-bound students to participate in the coming years to take advantage of this unique experience right here in the District. I look forward to next year's meeting and building upon what I learned to become a better advocate for our community.
